Our Singapore Correspondent informs us that Colonel Brereton of the Boyal Artillery, who arrived here in the Bruganza, will ultimately proceed to Borneo to join Mr Brooke, after having consulted with the Admiral on the subject of fortifying Labuan and Sara-wak. Should there prove to be no foundation for this report, there can be little doubt that what is anticipated therein, the subject having attraced attention in England, will at no distant period be fully carried out. fully carried out.

Orium—By the advices from Calcuta to the 18th August, prices had advanced, and in consequence, the article is held rather firmly.
The Hischistas Steamer got ashors in a dark night in a place where the "Memona" was lost (Cape Gardefin) Captain Moreoby had just since to get the paddles bucked and thus got the vessel off, after which she proceeded to Suzz where Captain Moreoby left, her and went Overland to Europe. On the return of the Hindoctin to Galle Captain Lewis of the Braganza took Command of her, so that the Command of the latter vessel devolved on Mr Mundy the Chief-Officer. that the Command of the lat Mr Mundy the Chief-Officer

Honour to all workers I what we cannot help thinking that our modern great authorities, in complimenting each other, rather lose sight of a power that had, after all, something to do in killing the Corn Law - to wit, the press. The newspaper press, for the most part, was strongly opposed to the corn monopoly, and laboured early and late before lengues were started or Ministers converted. The press it was that worked in independenceoperation with the Lengue organization, and that gave it name, fame, and efficiency. Nothing could be nore admirable then the conduct of the organization, but without the press, instead of "a great," the would have been a little, "fact," and the Corn Laws yet worepealed. In short, a wast amount of power twas brought to bear against the Corn Laws from different quarters; and the nearness of the result shows how little of it could have been spared. Subtract any one of the principal agents—six Robert Peel, Lord John Russell (who brought over his party.) Richard Cooken, Colonel I brigan, the Lengue, or the press, and who will venture to affirm that the Corn Laws would not have been yet on the statute-book? To some honour is pre-eminently due; but there have been many humble but earnest workers, whose individual labours have in no slight degree contributed to the great result. Nor should we forget divers very efficient workers of another class is it to be supposed that Mr William Miles, with his greater and trate butter rations, and unaffected horror of abundance; that Sir Edward Knatchbull, with his claim for "protection" on the score of Kenish pippins and marriage jointures; that Lord Stodley, with his prepositorous Tamboff blunders; that the Duke of Richmond, with his ingenious admissings about submon; that Colonel Sikhorp, by he brilliant sallies;—is it to be supposed, we say, that these men did nothing towards the downfall of the Corn Laws, to farge the spreaches of the Protectioniss. We are a fail to the downfall o porters this season, Messrs. Keeding and Hunt having sold at public sales upwards of 50,000 dur-ing the past month.— Ibid.

Calcurra — By the Rob Roy advices and journals have been received from 's alcuta' to August 13th, Sir J. P. Graut, senior Puisnqiage, quitted by the Precursor, for the hills, on the Sth instant. News from the Puciph continues to be of an unastisfactory nature Gholab Singh, our creeted King of 'sahmere, has strongly increased his army, which has occasioned some suspicions as to his ultimate intentions. Gholab Singh has been called upon, by the British authorities, to reduce his army and to give up certain forts, which he postively refuses to do. Gholah Singh's son is known to be intriguing with Akbar Khan and charges his father with treachery to the Khalsa of Lahore. The following is from the Englishaman of the Sth Aug.

LATES INTELLIGENCE FROM BORNEO. By the arrival last evening of H. C. Str. PMegethan, Captain Ross, we have received some particular respecting the progress of the Fleet, and the state of our relations with Borneo. From the subjoined details some information will be gained of what was done by the fieet after the departure of the Spiteful. The Admiral after quitting Maluda Bow was to proceed to China, without calling at Sooloo or Marilla as expected. What will be the moral effect of the expedition we have yet to heart. We learn however that Mr Brooke refused to have any personal intercourse with the Sultan, but negotiated through a native servant. In addition to ratifying former treaties, the Sultan is understood to have conceded to the British the right to work all the Coal found at Bruin and its neighbourhood. The Hazard, was at the mouth of the Bruin river when the Palegation left—H. M. S. Ringdow proceeded to Manila, the Iris to Sarawak.

July 25th.—After the departure of the War-Str.

"Spitefol" the H. C. Str. "Phlegethon" with Admiral on board proceeded up the rivers on the coatof Borneo as far Amboan, acriving at the laster place on the 20th. The fleet remained there until the 31st, procuring Bullocks, &c., when the ships got underweigh. The "Phlegeton" went up to Tampssook. At the later place captured a piratical prow having on board 3 Guus and 20 men—one dead man found on board. The men were put in Irons on to arther Phlegethon" and the boat destroyed; the men were sent on board the "Ringdows" to Manila for tribl. On the 1st August the boats of the fleet were desputched by the Admiral to the town of Tampssook, which was destroyed by fire as the Admiral found that the inhabitants were pirates. On the 2nd the boats went up to Bandahasan and dewere despatched by the Admiral to the town of Tampasook, which was destroyed by fire as the Admiral found that the inhibitants were pirates. On the 2nd the boats went up to Bandahasen and destroyed the town—the bonts being towed up by the "Phlegathon." On the 3rd the fixe got underweight and proceeded to Maladu. The boilers of the "Phlegathon" not being considered safe, she was ordered to Kemarzes to wait the arrival of Mr Brooke who was on board H. M. S. "I tis"—the latter vassel arrived on the 14th. Whilst at Kemarzes the commander of the "Phlegathon" obtained information that Hadjies Sumoun had fortified himself up an adjoining river about 8 miles distant. By the Iris information was received that the fleet had captured two piratical prows which fired into the boats; two men of the "Ringdovs" were killed and the master severely wounded, as also 3 others belonging to the same yessel.

On the 16th Augt the boats of the H. M. S. Iris and Philegathon and some nature armed prows from Brund left and when about 4 or 5 miles up the river and expured as fort, the guns of which were carried off before the boats could affect a landing. The boats then towed up the river to some considerable distance and on their return downward destroyed all the villages; in which operations, one man of the Iris was killed and 2 wounded, as also 2 natives wounded—8 men on beat the Philegathon and arrows and bamboo pipites. On the following day Mr Brooke proceeded on board the Philegathon and arrived at Birmiy where he sent to the Sultan and obtained a radification of all the former treatines as also some additional concessions.

We disally regret to observe that H. M.'s 50 gun Fligate Vernon—one of the finest vessels in the Rayal. Navy—is reported to have accidentally slown up, at the mouth of the river Title. This intelligence has keen thought by the Duke of Cornwall, which vessel obtained it from an American Brig of War on the passage c.t. The date of the accident does not appear to have been given. We have been informed by a passage by the Cornwall that all heads on board the Verson were said to have perished. Whether the information of this melanchely occurrence can be thoroughly relied on it is difficult to say; but we should be both indeed to attribute the invention of such a tale to an american Commander, however deeply imbued he might be with animosity towards England—Telegraph, August 3.

The less of the Vernon—The annexed letter which refers to the intelligence brought by the Duke of Cornwall, relative to the loss of H. M. S. Vernon, is worthy of a prominent place. As far na we have been able to obtain information on the subject, we have learned that the American Ship was met jace in the evening, and that the American Captain gave a short account of the calastrophe, which he said was eatirely accidental. The extent of the cvil was not thoroughly stated.—We must sherefore was flor some days in order to receive an account of the whole affair from England. However, as we have no doubt that Capt. Whitchead will obligingly communicate all that he knows on the subject we insert hope the letter, which requess him to do so.

AMERICA.

The retification of the treaty respecting the Oregon territory, has reached this country, not that all snively is now set at rest. It passed the Senate on the 18th nik, the Upper Bauts of Congress being absent on this important occasion. The circumstance which caused the userpected delay is worthy of note. It is customary, to refer treaties of this character to the standing committee on foreign relations, for a report giving their wicews on the proposed frenty; but in this venae, the chairman of that committee (Mr. Allen, of this) was apposed to the treaty; and, in deference to the views of the majority, he resigned, rather than present a report against a measure which he knew would be ndopted. The post was offered to Mr. Calhoun, of South Caroline, but he declared, and his friend, Mr. Mr. Duffie, of the same state, was elected. As soon as the two Gowernments have exchanged rathfeations, the treaty will be made public, together with the proceedings of the Senate in relation to it.

We have had various rumours as to the find vote, but we have no authentic list of the 41 Senators who voted for, and the 14 who voted against the ratification.

e expense of the Mexican was was causing

The expense of the Mexican war was causing considerable narriety both in Congress and out of derors. On the 3rd June, the Senate colled upon the President for information as to the probable expense of conducting the war, and for advice as to the best means of raising the money. The President senate a message in reply, on the 16th, enclosing estimates of the probable expense, made out by the War and Navy Departments, also a report from the Secretary of the Treasury, containing recommendations are to the best and must effective mode of raising the supplies. These recommendations appear to meet the approval of the President. They consist in educing the existing prohibitory and highly protective duties to recome rates, in imposing revenum duties on the free list, and in modifying brothesis duties to revenue rates, in imposing revenum duties on the free list, and in modifying the rates of duty on other attelys; yield the adoption of the warchousing system, a reduction in the price of public lands, and the issue of Treasury nates, or the contracting of a loan to the extent of 12,000,000 delikers. Tex and coffee, now admitted free, are among the articles upon which it is proposed to place a tax.

The discussion of the new Tariff Bill, after occupying the attention of the flower of Representatives for several days, had been fixed for decision on the 2d of July; is prospects had somewhat improved. The Waredwese Bill had been made the special oder of the Senate for the last July. Congress had also been engaged in irregular discussions tuching upon the Organ question, the numeration of Texas, the Mexican war, &c. The proffer by the British Government of a friendly mediation between the United States and Mexico had been received with considerable favour, and formed a tipue of wide discussion in the public journals. The newspapers also discuss the claims of various candidates for the next Presidency, Scott, Callican, Benton, and others are named; and hints are even thrown our pointing to General Taylor, the victor of the en

The Indians were reported to be unfarourable to the Américans, and the Mexicans relied much on their aid. General Urrea had despatched 500 troops to sourch to Bont's Fort; and to meet Spin's company of the manual to the testing a quantity of arms and ammunition to Santa Fe, and Coloned Kearney had sent a party of dragoons in pursual of it. A large portion of the American expedition under Coloned Kearney had already statted on its course.

Wo have father accounts from New York to 2d July, Domestic affairs in the Union had undergene little change, and the Warehousing Bill had been taken up by the Senate on the 80th uk, and the measure would, it we anticipated, receive the sanction of that assembly. Similar opisions were generally entertoined with regard to the Tariff Bill, then slowly progressing before the lower branch of Congress. The leading mes of the Upper House, according to the Washington letter-writers, would compromise the question. Considerable sensation had been produced by a manifesto of the Ohia delegation upon the tariff question. Mr. Binker, the fatter could be procured to a modification of the Tariff Bill.

He declared that he and his colleagues taxing importations of tea and ceffee, and would not accept it without that clause His party, he said, could not vote for it at all, because if passed, it would entail upon Congress the necessity of passive a seatnate bill for taxing the necessaries of passive a seatnate bill for taxing the necessaries of passive a seatnate bill for taxing the necessaries of passive as expensive and the measure of passive as weather that in the clau ne said, coud not vote for italia, occuser it would not produce revenue enough, and because if passed, it would entail upon Congress the necessity of pas-sing a separate bill for taxing the necessaries of life in order to procure revenue for the war. In short, Mr Brinkerhoof, on behalf of the Ohio delesizet, Mr Brinkerhoef, en behalf of the Ohio dele-gation, declared that they were determined to sup-port Pennsylvania and her interests in the crisis. Notwithstanding this decision anda, show of opposi-tion in other quarters, that bill will pass the house, although only by a small majority. No steps had been then by either house on matters of finance. The rumnurs of Cabinet changes still continued affoat, and there would ap-pear little moubt that Mr Buchanan desired and would assume the vacant seat upon the Supreme bench.
