(Translation.)

QUARANTINE REGULATIONS.

1. Hongkong and the ports of Formosa are herewith declared infected with bubonic plague.
2. Any vessel arriving in Tsintau which has had on board any case of bubonic plague or any case which was suspected to be bubonic plague, or a death which was suspected to have been from plague, must anchor south of the anchorage used by petroleum-ships and hoist a flag of yellow colour at the foremast. Until permission from the Harbour Office is obtained no person shall be allowed to leave the ship or hold communication with the shore or with any other vessel.
3. Any vessel arriving in Tsintau from Hongkong or from the ports of Formosa with less than a nine days' voyage will be allowed to pratique in the harbour if the Captain of the ship submits the ship's papers and declares upon oath that there was within the last nine days no case on board which was suspected to be plague.

These ships are subjected to a certain observation in accordance with the orders of the Harbour Office.

Tsintau, May 15th, 1899.

The Imperial Governor,

(Signed) JAESCHKE.
